EXCLUSIVE!

Lucy Meck - no kecks!

TOWIE babe flogs smalls!

WHILE MANY TOWIE alumni keep Essex's

plastic surgeons in Porsches, hair gel and Coldplay tickets enhancing their faces, boobs and bums, steelbunned brunette babe Lucy Mecklenburgh has remained resolutely untouched by scalpel.

Which brought her to the attention of surprise lingerie mogul
and ex-model Caprice,
who signed her up as the
"face" (always makes us chuckle) of her new range of smalls. Demonstrated,
as anyone can see,
awesomely here. So here's a fine lady, and some fine facts to go with,

She's a BAFTA winner!

Lucy was, of course, part of the TOWIE cast that won the 2011 TV BAFTA, beating Downton Abbey, Miranda and Sherlock.

She's got a hot sister!

Lucy's sister Lydia is basically a blonde version of Lucy and is on that Twitter with the handle @LydiaMeck. She's got over 40,000 followers!

She runs her own business!

Lucy owns Lucy's Boutique – two shops in Southend and Brentwood and a website she and her sister model for.

She's a big fitness fan!

Lucy also recently launched a fitness website, and runs three-day boot camps at £249 a pop. She tweeted "I work out for my health so I can live long... who am I fooling? It's so my ass will look banging in jeans!"

She's an art lover!

Lucy reportedly had an ice sculpture of ex-boyfriend Mario's willy-winkle made for her 21st birthday party!

She's not had a boob job!

All the exercise has boosted Lucy's boobs from a B to a C! "I've put on weight and it's gone to my bum and boobs," she commented. "But I'd never get a boob job. I'm too scared to go under the knife!"

 Lucy is wearing the Autumn/ Winter 2013 collection of the By Caprice range of lingerie.

All-new David Brent songs!

Brent's band played last week – and we were there!

LAST WEEK,
funnyman Ricky Gervais brought back his infamous comic creation, monstrous middle manager David
Brent, with his band
Foregone Conclusion, for a one-off gig of banter and songs. Nuts was there to scribble this lot down!

Slough

"My chosen career is repping up and down the country, you know, weekdays. Selling all cleaning products... not just cleaning products, all toiletry stuff. Tampon dispensers, you know. Urinal lozenges. But I'm based in Slough and this song is about that. Probably the best town in the world, innit? Slough. Everything in this song is factually accurate. So you'll learn something."

"More convenient than a Tesco Express.
Close to Windsor but the property's less.
It keeps the business of Britain great.
It's got Europe's biggest trading estate.
It doesn't matter where you're from.
You want to work, then come along.
The station's just got a new floor.
And the motorway runs by your door.
And you know just where you'll be heading.
It's equidistant between
London and Reading."

Spaceman

"Going to slow things down a bit, now. This is a little bit political, so it'll be controversial. Huh! Sue me! It's called Spaceman."

"Spaceman came down to answer some things.
The world gathered round, from poorest to kings.
'I'll answer your questions, I'll answer them true.
I show you the way, you know what to do.'
'Who is wrong and who is right?
Yellow, brown, black or white?'
Spaceman, he answered,
'You no longer mind,
I've opened your eyes, you're now

colour blind.""

"This next song is about young love. My first love, actually. Yeah, it's quite personal. True story as well. It's called Lady Gypsy."

"When I had known only 18 summers,
I headed west through the Whitley Wood.
To make my fortune and find a lover,
To make the best life a young man could.
And by the lakeside, just south of Didcot,
I spied an angel, just standing there.
She was a traveller, but she was pretty,
And clean, she was in the water, washing her hair.

I lost my heart to a lady gypsy,
So long ago I forget her name.
But I still remember the smell of the flowers,
And the way my life would never be the same.

She laid me down on a bed of heather.
She said, 'Please be careful, this is what I sell.'
I said, 'You're a hooker,'
she said, 'No, I mean the heather.
I sell the heather, like a lucky spell.'
I said, 'To be clear then, the sex is free?'
And she said, 'Yes, the sex is free, the heather's a pound.'
And I said, 'I don't need no heather.
And if I did, I would just pick some.
It's free.
It's growing in the ground."

Thank Fk It's Friday

SOUL MAN!

"OK. Let's pick it back up. I go around the country. I live in Slough. I'm always there for the weekends. This song is about that, OK? It's called Thank Fk It's Friday."

"I work so hard just to pay my bills.
I play even harder, yeah, life kills.
Yeah, I'm burning rubber on the M25.
God a crazy weekend, some won't make it out alive.
Yeah, this is my day. Thank fk it's Friday.
I wake up Sunday feeling Saturday pain.
Dry clean five white shirts, on the road again.
A week in a cheap motels, yeah, I'm earning my bread.

As long as I'm back for the weekend, I'll sleep when I'm dead."

Meet Dom...

Brent: Black? Mixed race, which is my favourite. Best of both worlds. His dad was black, his mum was white, get over it.

Dom: You get the facts right, and that? My mum is black, my dad is white.

Brent: What?

Dom: My mum is black, my dad is white. If you want to get the facts right.

Brent: Really? Ha-ha!

That's even weirder!

Equality Street

"I haven't got a racist bone in my body, I love all cultures, and this next song is all about that. But to do it, I need a special guest. Chris Martin's best mate is Jay-Z. Frank Sinatra had Sammy Davies Jr. I've got one too... please welcome Dom Johnson. It's called Equality Street."

"Let me take you down Equality Street. You never know the people you'll meet. At the end of the street is a golden gate. It let in love, it don't let in hate, no! Walk with me down Equality Street. Do unto others and life is sweet. Books have no covers, just look right in. You're judged by your words, not the colour of your skin, uh! Deyo, deyo, deyo, missideyo. Biddly b

Pretend press shots of the wee tyrant!

THE PRESS office for diminutive dictator Kim Jong-un last week released this picture of the North Korean despot, purportedly inspecting the building site of a children's hospital.

But even a blind drunk chap could see this is picture-doctoring balderdash. Which got us thinking of other venues we could pretend the awesome autocrat has visited...

Plus! Other dictators' picture fibbing!

HOSNI MUBARAK!

The former Egyptian president was at this meeting, but had himself photoshopped from the back of the line, to become the man leading out Pres Obama and chums!

TOO MANY MISSILES!

Following an actually successful test firing, Iranian authorities thought it would look much better if they added an extra rocket. Or two.

BEACH LANDING

North Korea made this up. Adding at least three identical landing craft to spruce up a picture of their sabre-rattling military manoeuvres!

IRANIAN ATTACK JET!

Iran again. After aviation experts concluded this snazzy jet could never fly, propagandists just cut out the pic of the grounded plane, and slapped it on a pic of some mountains!

The Jackass star on fake willies, perfect pranks, his worst ever injury and violent lady fans!

Hi Johnny! Tell us about your new flick, Bad Grandpa...

After five hours of make-up I'm transformed into 86-yearold Irving Zisman [Bad Grandpa from Jackass] and take my grandson Billy on a road trip, pranking the public as we go. It's far out!

How far do you go?

Everyone who likes Jackass is gonna love Bad Grandpa. Getting my Jim Dog [Johnny's preferred name for his winkle] stuck in a Coke machine and swinging my fake balls in a strip club makes this one R-rated. In America, nudity's bad. I wish the kind of nudity you have in Nuts was good there.

You're accident prone to say the least! What's the worst injury you suffered this time?

I was shooting a promo dressed up as Irving at a frat house. I sat with the students watching the movie and everyone was hammered. After a while, I realised my heart was racing and it dawned on me, "Fk! Someone's dosed me with ecstasy!" I thought, "This could be fun!" Then I snapped a tendon in my hand which needed an operation and 26 stitches. I think I did it hanging from a basketball hoop or maybe it was crashing through a table. It was fun, but I would have been bummed if they'd spiked me with acid.

What does your doctor think?

Which one? I've got 20 doctors' numbers in my phone!
Recently, I fractured my elbow and right now I have a torn shoulder. My left side's my impact side so it's all fked.
And my back's blown out but I don't know what else to do besides move forward. It's what I do and a big part of it, so I don't really think about it.
And I have asthma! But I don't give a sh*t – I'm fine with it.

Which was your worst injury?

When I go in for a physical
I have to list all my injuries.
I have a piece of paper to hand them. The worst was when Travis Pastrana [from extreme sports stunt crew Nitro Circus]
talked me into doing a dirt bike stunt. I screwed up the backflip and the handlebars smashed into my crotch. I tore my urethra and because of my busted penis I had to p*ss through a tube for three years!

"I had to p*ss through a tube for three years!" Johnny Knoxville

When you plan a prank, do you worry people will react badly?

I don't give a sh*t about being punched, but I don't want someone to hit me wrong and then their knuckle hurts, so they sue us. In America there are lots of lawsuits, so when I'm trying to get someone angry I'll bring 'em back down. Then I'll get 'em angry again and bring 'em down.

Sounds dangerous!

I have to gauge what I can get away with and when I'm out with [pretend grandson] Jackson I've got to be careful because I don't want someone swinging around him. We always have a plain clothes person within ten feet of the prank. And with a mouth like Jackson's... sometimes if he doesn't get the desired reaction from someone, he'll yell an insult as they walk off.

"Listen pal, there was nothing wrong with him

when he left the shop...'

What was your favourite prank in the film?

We had a great scene in the diner where Irving "sharts" on a wall but we needed an entrance, so we built a giant penguin to leave out front for me to crash into. So this guy who had no affiliation to the restaurant came out and started going nuts on me for 40 minutes. I was having so much fun. I yelled at him and he got angry and when people get irrational I know I've got 'em hooked. He wanted to hit me, but when it was over, he was great.

Did you ever get spotted as Johnny Knoxville in an old man costume?

I was pranking this one guy and he said, "I see you with your fake hair, fake eyebrows and fake moustache!" When he said that I was like, "Well, sh*t!" And I just got up and left because I thought he'd rumbled me. But I later learned he didn't know it was me and just thought it was some old guy with fake hair.

Who was the inspiration for Bad Grandpa?

I love old Vaudeville comics and my father was a prankster. He'd spike his employees' drinks with laxatives and send them letters with bad news from the VD clinic. What's the strangest thing a fan has ever said or done?

I'll get guys trying to fight me, and girls get weird. I've had one say, "Hey Johnny, I love your stuff!" And then punch me! Or there are girls who put their cigarette out on my arm.

Finally, are you looking forward to old age?

Sure. People think you're harmless, which helps when you're playing a dirty, old man. My make-up guy said when they do old age make-up on women, they cry. But with me I'm like, "Hell, I'll be a handsome old devil!"

 Jackass Presents: Bad Grandpa is in cinemas from 23 October.

Monster fish washes up!

And it made these people (and a dog) happy!

looking, 18-foot fishy mother is unusual for two reasons. Firstly, it's an enormously rare oarfish – the world's longest bony fish – which washed up on Santa Catalina Island, California and are usually found bobbing around up to 1km beneath the surface. And secondly: will you just look at the fricking thing! Ew!

217mph tuned Ferrari F12 Berlinetta!

German spanner monkeys Novitec Rosso spruce up Ferrari's flagship!

- The Italians are pretty protective about their creations, and rightly so when they're as handsome and hardcore as the 730bhp, 211mph F12. It isn't a quick Ferrari, it's a 1.6-tonne firework wearing Pirellis. So how did a bloke called Wolfgang Hagedorn and his Novitec team from Stetten, Germany, massaged multiple improvements into an already Bake Off-beatingly successful recipe?
- Well, they made it faster, more powerful and a bit more, well stocky. Let's talk girth first.
 Called the N-Largo, it's a wide-bodied conversion of the F12, which has been achieved with new flared front wings and rear quarter panels, which also feature slitty gill vents to allow hot air to escape from each brake disc and direct air to the rear wing.
- The width increase of 4.2in was achieved using carbon fibre components, and Novitec say that each panel was designed with aerodynamics and cooling in mind. By using a wind tunnel, the N-Largo's front bumper and central front blade have, for example, been remodelled to glue the front end (reducing lift) at high speeds.

 At the rear, there's a carbon wing and new detailed fivepiece diffuser panel which generates more downforce.
 Also, in order not to look too under-wheeled with its newfound broadness, the original Ferrari 20in rims have been discarded in favour of wider-track forged threepiece rims – 21in at the front and 22in at the rear.

 Suspension-wise, there's a front-end lift function, so as not to hit your beautiful bodywork on kerbs and inconsiderately placed speed humps. We love the two angled intake beaks that sit at the back of the bonnet, and which serve to force cool air into the engine bay, to be eagerly snorted up by the 48-valve 6,262cc V12.

 Developing peak power at 8,250rpm, the Ferrari's glorious 12-cylinder has had its bhp boosted from 730 to and impressive 781 thanks to an ECU remap and a freer breathing exhaust system.
 Don't forget this thing doesn't have any help from turbos or superchargers.

- The extra power means the 1,630kg supercar's top speed swells from a notparticularly-slow 211mph to 217mph. Yes, this is a rather rapid car. And 62mph will fly past in just 3.1 seconds.
- And it's an expensive car, obviously. A standard vanilla F12 from Ferrari will uppercut your wallet for a hefty £239,352. The Bond-villain sounding N-Largo could set you back a fee approaching £150,000 more.

forest and end up with blood pouring from a vicious wound" sounds like a horror film plot. To be fair, Rhett Barrett, 26, from Napa, California, probably found it a pretty horrible experience he had his limb gored by a jagged pipe!

"There was a lot of blood gushing out, so I had to tie my own tourniquet, and then call for help. It was a painful twohour wait before I got to hospital, I'm fine now - it only needed 14 stitches!"

We still say this would've been more impressive if he'd fought off a hacksaw-wielding murderer, too!

ello Rosle! What's new with you?
Hello! I've just moved house.
I made sure
there's a suitable
garden for topless sunbathing.
I think my new neighbours are an old couple – they might get a shock in summer!

You look like you've enjoyed this American-themed shoot. Is America more fun than Blighty at this time of year?

Americans have Thanksgiving and these amazing parades for Halloween. We don't get quite as enthusiastic over here, but me and the girls are all going to dress up for Halloween.

What will your costume be? It's a Harry Potter theme and I'm going to be Hagrid, so I'll be sporting a big bushy beard! I'd love to do a Harry Potter Nuts shoot – but a sexy one!

Sounds like a plan! Lots of cool American stuff like Reeses Pieces is on sale in the UK now. What's your favourite import? I don't really like that these cool American products are available here now. It means it's not special any more. Stuff like Victoria's Secret used to be an exotic treat. Now you can easily get it over here.

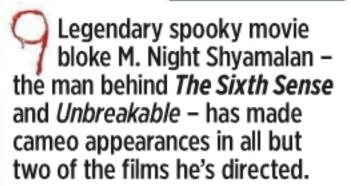

You and your fellow Nuts babes go to Las Vegas a lot. Does the British accent go down well? They love it. But they either seem to think we're very posh, like the Queen, or common – like we're from EastEnders!

Do they think you know Her Maj? You're not far off! I love it when people ask something like, "I have an aunty in Cheshire, do you know where her street is?" Brilliant.

If you were to treat an American to a Great British day out, where would you take them?
We'd go to Brighton beach in the wind and rain for a bag of chips. That's what we do, isn't it? Then to Thorpe Park because it's awesome!

In Drag Me To Hell, Justin Long's character can be seen using various Apple devices – a nod to the fact he famously starred in a series of "I'm a Mac" adverts for the company.

When Specs and Tucker enter Elise's house in Insidious: Chapter 2, there is an African tribal painting hanging on the wall. The same painting makes an appearance in both Paranormal Activity 2 and 3.

Four of the actors who appeared in *Texas*Chainsaw 3D (2013) also featured in previous films in the franchise, breaking the record of the three who returned in 1994 for *Texas Chainsaw Massacre:*The Next Generation.

Before remaking Halloween in 2007, a crossover film with Pinhead from Hellraiser was mooted, but dropped after fans rubbished the idea in an online poll.

Don't Be Afraid Of The Dark writer Guillermo del Toro makes a brief cameo as a passenger on the plane, sitting behind the lead character Sally.

All the songs featured in 1981 wolfy classic An American Werewolf In London feature the word "moon".

In 2011, British censors banned *The Human*Centipede 2 because it was too graphic. It finally got an 18 certificate after the film's makers agreed to make 32 cuts, losing two minutes and 37 seconds of the most extreme footage.

The 2013 remake of the Evil Dead used 70,000 gallons of fake blood - 50,000 gallons in the final scene alone. The 1981 original used just 300 gallons.

Anthony Anderson appears in Scream 4 as Deputy Perkins. He also featured in Scream spoofs Scary Movie 3 and Scary Movie 4.

The CGI team who made Freddy's face in the 2010 Nightmare On Elm Street also created Harvey 'Two-Face' Dent in The Dark Knight.

In The Conjuring, the witch Bathsheba Sherman is hanged for killing her children as a sacrifice to the Devil. Based on true events, the real-life Bathsheba was found innocent of the crime and died of natural causes in 1885.

Screenwriter Simon Barrett penned 2013 slasher You're Next. He also appears in the film as the Tiger Mask Killer.

The budget was so low for 2007 blockbuster Paranormal Activity that the stars Katie Featherston (Katie) and Micah Sloat (Micah) were paid less than £500 each.

> In The Texas Chain Saw Massacre (1974), Gunnar Hansen, who played Leatherface, wore three-inch heels to look taller.

In the 2012 version of The Woman In Black, Daniel Radcliffe plays the Arthur character. In the 1989 TV version, Arthur was played by Adrian Rawlins, who was also Radcliffe's father in the Harry Potter films.

Citizens of Burkittsville - the town where The Blair Witch Project was filmed - claim that the legacy of the movie has ruined their community and, in 2010, voted to sell the "Welcome to Historic Burkittsville" signs that the studio donated to them, for £3.000.

In House On Haunted Hill (1999) the lead is called Steven Price, in tribute to the star of the 1959 version, Vincent Price.

The ending of apocalyptic zombie flick 28 Days Later is notoriously vague, but a pilot can be heard saying "Låhetätkö helikopterin?" That's Finnish for "Send helicopters", suggesting everything's OK...

During one of the torture scenes in Hostel Part II, Roger Bart (Stuart) screams "I'm fking Hercules!" Ten years earlier Bart provided the voice for Hercules in the Disney cartoon about the mythical hero.

One of the squaddies in Dog Soldiers is called Bruce Campbell, a tribute to the star of the original Evil Dead film, who went by the very same name.

Paranormal Activity 4 🚄 🛁 star Stephen Dunham died of a heart attack just one month before the film was released in the States in 2012.

Based on a true story, the house in The Haunting In Connecticut is burnt down at the film's end. In real life, no fire and the house is still standing

In the director's cut of the 2009 version of Halloween II, mental killer Michael Myers removes his mask and screams, "Die!" before stabbing Doctor Loomis – the first time in the entire series the killer speaks.

In Splinter, Farrell gives Seth a safety deposit box key. The address on it is 1060 W. Addison St - home to the Chicago Cubs baseball park, Wrigley Field.

Johnny Depp and Jackie Earle Haley both auditioned for A Nightmare On Elm Street. Depp got the role of Glen Lantz and Haley missed out - only to get the part of Freddy Krueger in the 2010 remake.

The creator of the Hatchet slasher trilogy, Adam Green, is a member of a paranormal investigation group or a paranormal in called Hollywood Ghost Hunters.

The Michael Myers mask used in the original Halloween movie was actually a mask of Star Trek's Captain Kirk turned inside out.

Psycho director Alfred Hitchcock bought all copies of the book it was based on to keep the ending secret.

The woman who bathes in virgins' blood in Hostel Part II is based on Elizabeth Bathory - a real life Hungarian countess who was said to have killed hundreds of young girls.

In the original 1974 Texas Chain Saw Massacre film, a real human 🖐 skeleton from India was used in one scene because, apparently, its cost was actually less than using a false one Stanley Kubrick convinced the American Motion Picture Association that the river of blood emerging from the lift in The Shining was really rusty water to get a trailer approved.

> Harvey Stephens, who played Damien in The Omen, plays a tabloid reporter in the 2006 remake

Ryan Gosling was the initial choice to play apocalyptic survivor Jim in 28 Days Later. The part eventually went to Cillian Murphy.

Simon Pegg and Edgar Wright appear in George A Romero's Land Of The Dead (2005), as zombies tied a bar for punters to fire paintball guns at.

The werewolf transformation skin effects in An American Werewolf In London were achieved by pulling hair through fake skin, and then reversing the footage.

Eli Roth was given an official pardon by the President Of Iceland after he depicted an Icelandic character in Hostel as a sadistic drunken sex maniac.

The language of the vampires in 30 Days Of Night was created for the movie by a linguistics professor.

In the 1985 zombie flick Day Of The Dead, Joe Pilato improvised the words, "Choke on 'em! Choke on ving dead tuck into his innards.

Only one person is killed by a chainsaw in the original version of The Texas Chain Saw Massacre.

Cabin Fever was arrested by police completed shoot with a decapitated corpse prop he'd decided to take home as a souvenir

The address of The Excorcist director William Friedkin's production office was 666 Fifth Avenue.

In this year's remake of The Evil Dead, the first letters of each of the main character's names (David, Eric, Mia, Olivia, Natalie) deliberately spell "DEMON" when put together.

Production on The Omen was famously cursed. Actor Gregory Peck and writer David Seltzer's planes were both struck by lightning.

Another oldie supposedly steeped in curse was Poltergeist. In the six years between the release of the first and third films, four cast members died in separate, pretty horrible circumstances.

In Paranormal Activity, Micah uses The Picture Book of Devils, Demons and Witchcraft to investigate. It's a real book, on Amazon for a fiver.

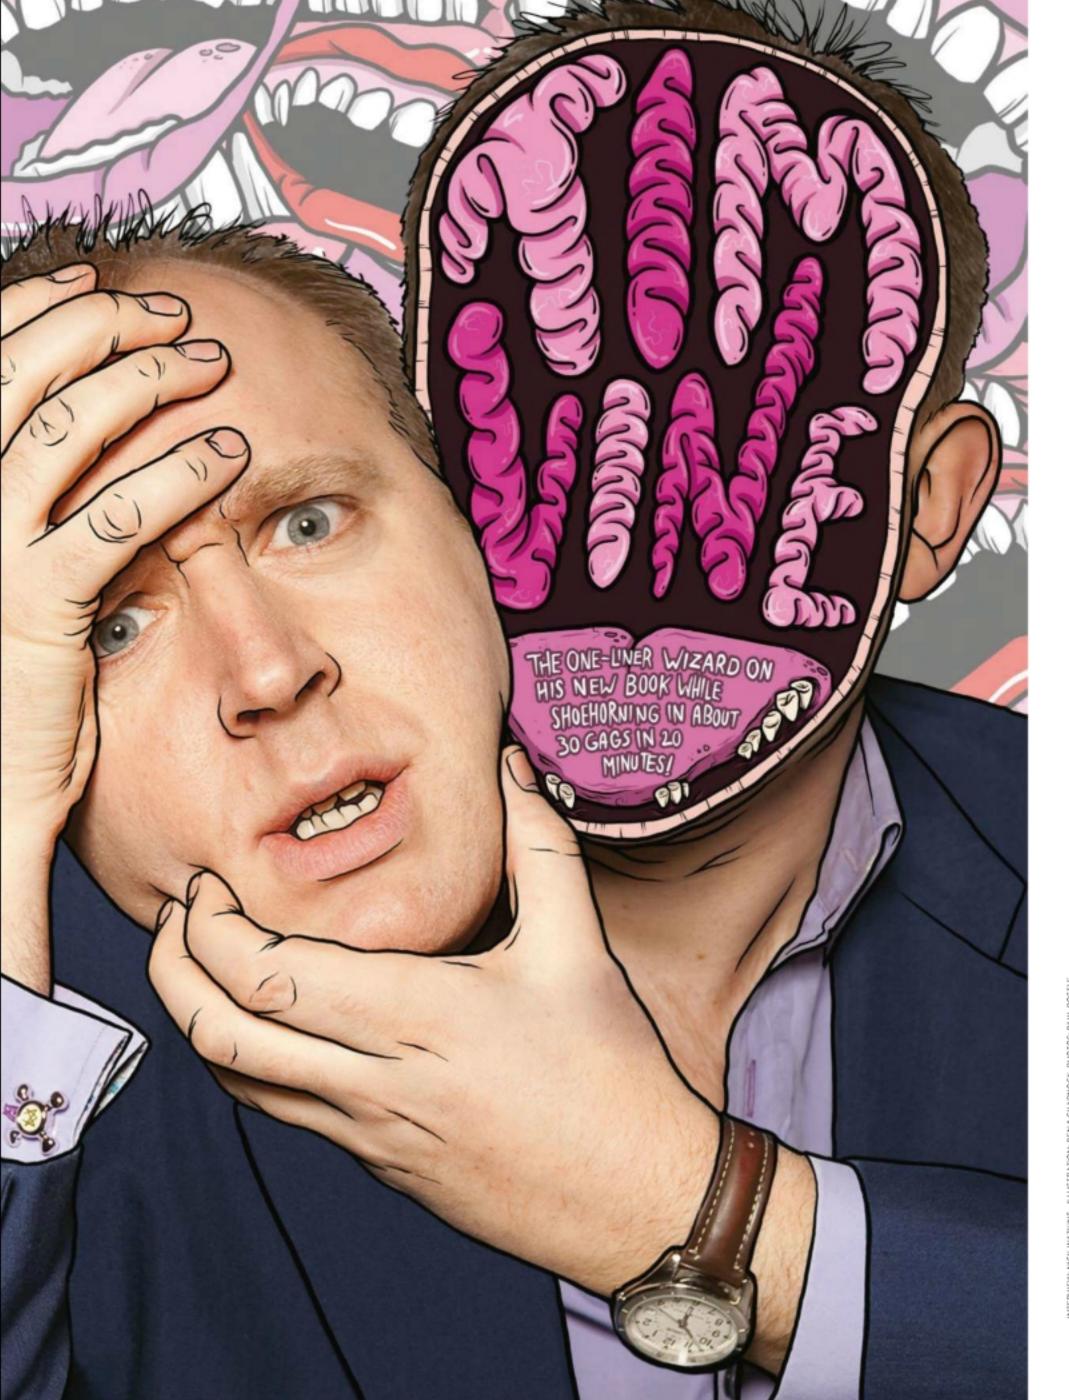

The supposedly haunted Linda Vista Community Hospital is featured in Insidious 2 but has also been used as a filming location in over 20 horror movies, dozens of TV shows and a Foo Fighters music video.

Demonologist Lorraine Warren, whose exploits The Conjuring (2013) are based on - makes a cameo in the film.

2012's daft take on the genre The Cabin In The Woods featured 80 different types of monster. It took 60 artists six weeks to create the bone-chilling beasts.

ello Tim! Your new book advertises daft jokes, crazy pictures, and utter nonsense. If you added sexy girls, wouldn't that just be Nuts magazine?

Ha-ha! Actually, there are pictures of girls in there too. My crazy life doesn't deny the existence of girls!

Your gag – "I've just been on a once-in-alifetime holiday. I'll tell you what, never again." – was voted joke of the festival at Edinburgh a few years ago. Where do you go from that?

It wasn't really the best joke, was it?
Thing is, you have to meet certain rules to even be entered for the best joke, so long jokes that are absolutely hilarious won't make it because they don't fit into a newspaper column. So that brings it down to people who do one-liners.

Did you have all this in mind when you were telling your jokes then? "Keep them short, win an award" sort of thing?

No, I can only write short jokes anyway, so it suited me. I've tried writing long jokes but they don't normally work, to be honest. I was telling a gag about a shepherd's pie-dog once and the audience just sat there and stared at me for about five minutes.

Do you see gag potential in everything you encounter, like some sort of joke Terminator?

Some days I write loads and other times I'll just think of them when I'm out and about. It depends if I've got a tour coming up. I've never made a joke at a funeral or anything.

What would happen if you and your brother, BBC radio presenter Jeremy, had to swap jobs for a week? So he'd have to do comedy and stand-up, and you'd need to tackle the serious issues of the day...

Jeremy could probably get away with doing my job for a little while but I'm not sure if he's got enough jokes in the locker to do it for a week. He has actually written a few jokes for me.
I don't think I could do his job because I get lost very quickly when I'm hearing him talk to a politician. I'd probably end up trying to chat about crazy golf instead of the economy.

You were also best man at your brother's wedding – did you feel added pressure to make it the funniest speech in history because you're Tim Vine?

Ha-ha, the funniest speech in history?

Well I didn't succeed in that, did I! I had a strong opening gag though, which was "Me and Jeremy, we go way back", which was quite amusing at the time.

What advice would you give to a reader who might have to give a funny speech? If you want some advice for a wedding speech I'd always get everyone to give you a round of applause and then say, "My, what a reception!" I did that gag as well and it got a good response.

When was the last time that you heard a joke that really made you groan?

I don't ever groan at jokes! To me, if you groan at a joke that means you're not joining in with the silliness of it. I imagine people who groan at jokes aren't much fun at parties.

a topical subject, he

HALLOWEEN!

MAN UNITED!

Of The Day and they

THE MERCURY PRIZE!

to have a Tetris jal

What are you like when you meet people for the first time – do you go straight in with a joke?

No, I normally make conversation first. I went to a fancy dress party once dressed as sodium chloride and this bloke threw sulphuric acid on my head... I didn't know how to react! Write that down, it's a joke. You can have that.

You've done a spot of acting too, but could you ever turn serious, and have a part in something like Top Boy? Ha-ha! Yeah, actually I'd like some sort of serious role as the head of a spaceship or something. Maybe a character that has a lot of serious looks and lots of close-ups. I've not been offered such a role yet, though.

Maybe people don't realise you'd like a serious role. As soon as they read this the offers will come flooding in... Yeah, hopefully some Hollywood producer will be reading Nuts and they're looking for someone that appears to have little acting experience but just expresses a slight interest in having one serious scene! I could be their man for that. My favourite film is Unforgiven and apparently they're working on a sequel called I Said I Was Sorry! I'll tell you who is a rubbish actor though... Dustbin Hoffman.

Ha-ha! Which UK institutions would benefit from an in-house punmaster?

The last time I had a job in an office was in Croydon – or as I call it, "Stonehenge with windows" – I used to always muck about and stuff. My Dad said, in all seriousness, that it's the people like that who should be paid more. Those in the office that are happy to have a laugh and a joke and keep morale up are more important than people who just sit inputting data. That's what offices need to improve productivity – someone there making people happy. So to answer your question, I think every office in the land should have someone that goes desk to desk, making people laugh.

Thanks, Tim. Finally, have you ever had a gag go disastrously wrong on stage?

Don't use props. I remember very early on in my career, I went on stage with a big envelope on my head and some more on my hands and I said to the crowd, "Well, you lot are weird... where are your envelopes?" and it got a bit of a laugh but not the best one to start with, Although, I then said, "You're probably wondering why I've got an envelope on my head... it's because someone sent me!" I love that joke. Maybe I'll bring it back, actually!

E'VE GOT
exclusive snaps from Helen's sexy
new calendar,
but what does 2014 hold for her? Here, in her own words, is how next year could pan out...

January is for... Quiet nights in Like most Brits, January is for hibernating and watching repeats of Breaking Bad. Helen's no different: "I love going out, but sometimes I'm just in the mood for an absolute geek night, like staying in with a Harry Potter box set!"

February is for... Finding love

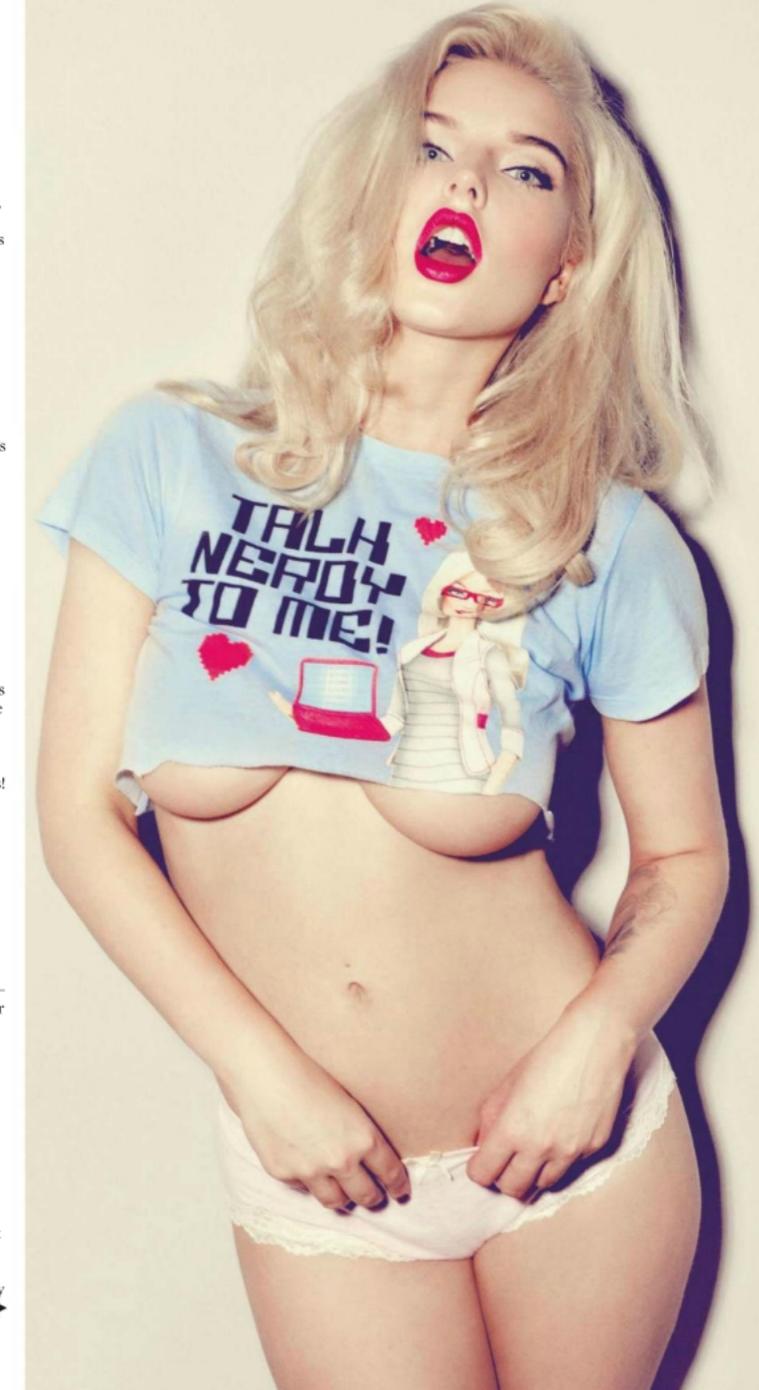

Helen is no stranger to matters of the heart, but what does she look for in a bloke? "For me, the most attractive thing is a gentleman." There you have it, chaps – mind your manners!

March is for... Getting a new wardrobe

So how does Helen make herself look extra awesome? "Wear either underwear that's a bit too small or a padded bra – they're your best bets. It's never sexy trying to be someone you're not." Sound advice, but we're not sure the bra thing will work for us.

April is for... Change

People are always planning new things around Easter, so could we be seeing Helen back on our small screens? We'll see! "I do cringe a bit when I see myself on TV – especially if I've had a drink! I start swearing too much! That's not sexy! I just forget that the cameras are there!"

May is for... New wheels

Helen's famous for being seen in her Audi R8, but she's the first to admit she's not strictly a petrol head. "Who knew you needed engine oil?" she once famously asked. "You learn something new every day. I'm a girly girl, why would I know about engine oil?" It's OK, Hels, that's what KwikFit's for!

June is for... Kicking off summer

Summer is something our Helen's looking forward to. "I like a summer drink," she admits. I love a glass of wine or champagne but that's because I'm young. I've never been to uni so I've never had that time when you go out every night."

July is for... Nights out "Like lots of girls, I enjoy

"Like lots of girls, I enjoy getting dressed up, having fun on a night out and taking loads of pictures. I'm not the sort of person who can fade into the background!" Helen announced to the world earlier this summer. Her Instagram is the visual proof of this promise, should you need it!

August is for... Reality TV

It's a field Helen is pretty much expert in now, and many have asked whether she'll take the plunge and do Celebrity Big Brother. But one thing's for certain, she won't be getting up to any funny business. "Sex would never look good on TV. Not to sound prudish, but it's a minging thing to do!" Never go on Geordie Shore, Hels!

September is for... End of summer

Helen has famously been quoted as saying that she has the best boobs of anyone she's ever seen. Thankfully, she's not keen to cover up just yet: "I'm really proud of my boobs, and I'm grateful that I've got a voluptuous chest. It has a lot of power!" Power to keep winter away? Let's hope so!

October is for... New calendars

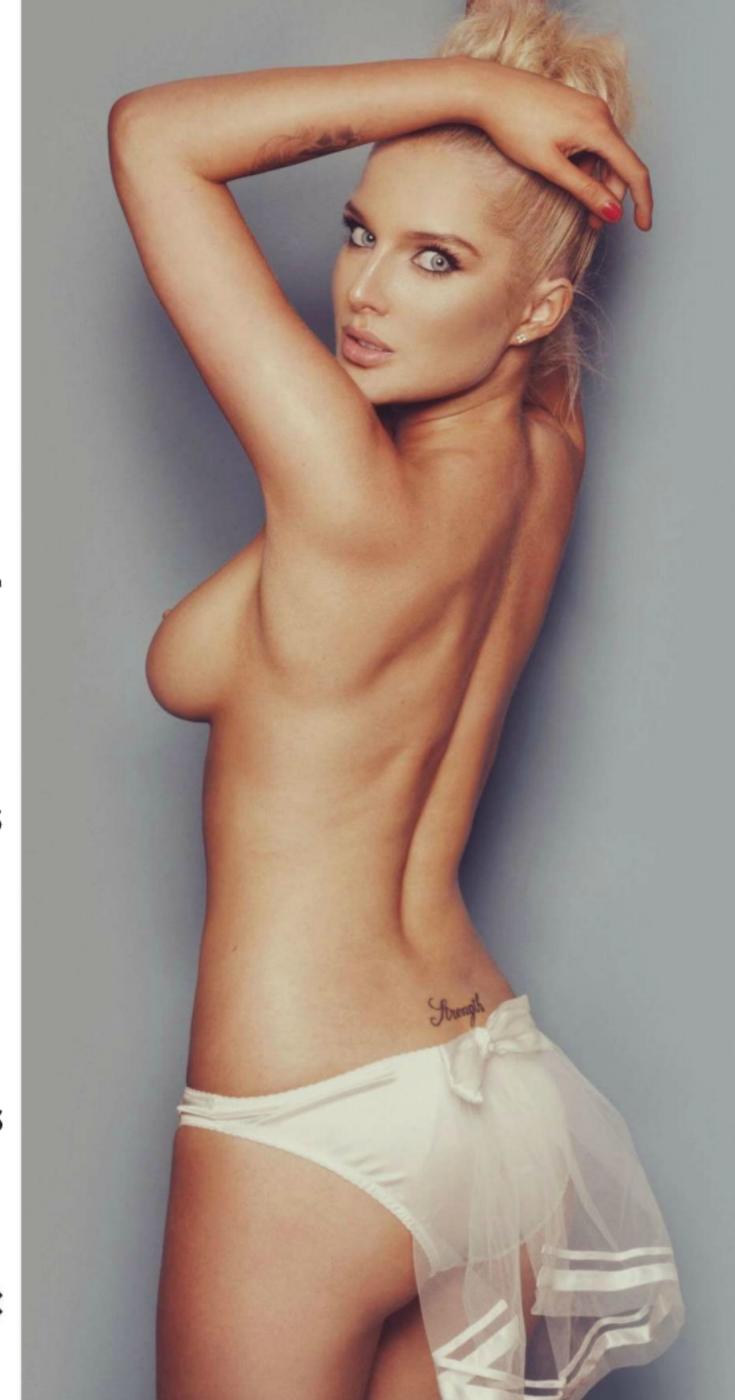

"I really, really enjoy my shoots," Helen says of hers. "I'm not shy, as everyone knows. It's good fun. If everything's really classy and beautiful and tasteful, I don't think there's anything wrong with sexy shoots. I think women should celebrate themselves as beautiful and sexy." Amen!

November is for... Fireworks

Yes, we have the bangs and explosions of November 5th, but Helen is used to fireworks of a different nature. After her latest spat with fellow Celebrity Super Spa contestant Yvette Fielding, Helen insisted, "It was just a TV show. No, me and Yvette didn't get on, but I don't hold any hard feelings towards her now it's over."

December is for... Christmas parties

"I like going to parties with my friends, but I don't really like to over indulge," says Helen. "I like looking forward to the whole festive season..."
Maybe a kiss under the mistletoe, eh, Helen?
Helen? Oh, she's gone...

Where's the strangest place you've ever had sex?

"I was out walking in a field one weekend and came over all hot and bothered – I just had to have my boyfriend! We crept into the hay barn and had hot steamy sex, right there and then!"

What's your trademark move in the bedroom?

"I've been told that I use my sexy modelling face in the middle of sex. But the thing is, I don't even realise that I'm doing it!"

What's a massive turn on for you?

"I love it when a guy picks me up and carries me up the stairs, while my legs are wrapped around his waist and he's kissing my neck. This is very specific but I love it!"

4 Which do you prefer – giving or receiving?

"I like to give, as I always love to watch his facial expressions. Plus, if he enjoys it enough, it'll be my turn to be on the receiving end soon enough anyway, in my experience!"

5 What's your favourite position?

"I love being on top so I have complete control of what's happening, but I do also like doing it doggy-style."

6 Which one rude thing would you love to try that you haven't already?

"I'd love to have sex in a swimming pool, or Jacuzzi, as I've always imagined it'd be a lot of fun and very sexy!"

What's the sexiest outfit you own?

"I own half the Ann Summers collection! My favourite is a classic black lace set, with stockings and suspenders."

8 What's the rudest thing you've ever done?

I once pulled my man's trousers and boxers down in the kitchen, to have sex, while he was in the middle of preparing dinner!"

Racy revelations from our female readers!

'My Tinder surprise'

MY BEST mate recently persuaded me to download the Tinder app. I was reluctant at first, but it turned out to be an easy way to check out hot guys close by. One Friday night after the pub, me and my pal decided to search for a guy to have some fun with. Within 20 minutes, we'd found a fit Canadian. After exchanging rude messages, we got him over to ours to give him a real-life treat. Watching my friend take him in her mouth was so hot that I played with myself on the couch. We spent the rest of the night playing strip poker! Charlie Oxford

'Our steamy road trip'

MY FELLA and I took our car over to France last weekend for a friend's wedding. We hadn't spent a weekend together in ages, and were looking forward to letting our hair down and some saucy "us" time. We were both horny, as soon as the train pulled off I could see the excitement in his eyes. Within minutes we were snogging, and he had his hands in my top, caressing my hard nipples. The car steamed up quite quickly, and I soon had my hands on his crown jewels. Then I went down on him and he could barely contain his groans. It made the journey go really quick! Sarah Barnes

'We had fun in the mirror'

I'D HAD a really long week in my new job and I couldn't wait to get home, get upstairs and jump in a hot shower to unwind. My boyfriend works away once a month with his job, and I was feeling lonely. After drying off, I started rubbing cream all over myself and thinking of my man's toned body. I heard the door go and an excited voice call out. He was home early! I hid behind the door, still damp and fully naked. The door opened and as he crept in I surprised him by pouncing on his back. His face was a picture, and within moments he had me pinned up against the wall. while he frantically pulled off his trousers with his other hand. We ended up having fantastic sex up against the bathroom mirror, which steamed up! That's always the plus side to him working away! Claire Debden

'Sexy box set sessions' THERE'S A guy on my course at uni who I get paired with for coursework occasionally. He's really cute and shy, and after chatting online one evening, he invited me over to watch some box set he'd been on about. I wasted no time in sneaking out to his halls and, as we laid on his bed, the TV was the last thing on my mind. I leant over him to get my phone making sure to deliberately rub my pert breasts on him. Then I slowly teased my finger up his leg before gently rubbing his crotch. It wasn't long before I was inviting him to return the favour and before long, we were frantically playing with each other before we both came really hard. Our box set marathons are a weekly fixture now - but we don't watch much telly! Alice Carlisle

Aguero: 'I want to be world No.1!'

The City ace on life under the new boss!

Hi Sergio! How would you sum up the season so far?

We have a new coach, and it takes time for players to get used to a new set of tactics and approach to the game. Results have been good but they could have been better.

What's new boss Manuel Pellegrini like to work with?

The way he approaches each game suits my style of play. We keep possession and move the ball forward quicker. This has always been his philosophy.

Was Roberto Mancini as unpopular with the players as everyone says?

There are always going to be rumours when you're not winning as many games as you should. I never had a problem with the previous coach. He worked very hard to make Man City a success and I respect that.

Is it a united dressing room?

Always. The one thing that's permanent is the attitude of the players and coaching staff. We want to make this club as strong as it can be for many years. I think we've gone about things the right way, getting better and learning from our mistakes.

Have the summer's managerial changes made the title race more open?

I'm sure the other clubs see it as an opportunity, not just because of different coaches but also the way they've strengthened. Tottenham have an impressive squad and Liverpool are going in a good direction. So I think it's an open race. Of course, you can't win every game, but we've got the skills!

Skills to win the title?

Ha-ha! Yes. But no one can predict the future.

What drives you?

Playing for a club with strong goals and seeing the joy it brings the fans when you do well. I want to be among the best in the world. This doesn't come through ability alone. Look at Messi and Ronaldo – those guys work and work. And so do I!

You've previously spoken about the determination that comes from playing street football as a kid...

It teaches you to be strong because you're sometimes playing against much bigger, more physical opponents. You also have to have the right mentality – never to accept defeat.

How settled are you at City?

I miss home but I'm still very happy here. English football is everything I hoped it would be. The plans here are also very exciting so who wouldn't want to be part of that?

 Chelsea vs Man City, live on Sky Sports 1/HD, Sunday 27 October, 4pm.

World Cup and ones to watch!

Former England hero Martin Offiah selects his key men for the dust-ups!

THE BIG men are out in force this weekend, as the Rugby League World Cup gets under way, with England's team looking stronger than ever and home interest in Wales, Scotland and Ireland, too. Nuts asked record try-scoring rugby league winger Martin Offiah to pick out the key home nation players...

 Saturday 26 October: England vs Australia, 2.30pm, BBC One; Wales vs Italy, 4.30pm, BBC Two. Live coverage of all matches on BBC TV, radio and online.

ENGLAND +

"I can narrow it down to three key men - Sam Burgess, Sam Tomkins and Josh Charnley. Josh is the only winger in the summer era to score over 40 tries in a season. Sam Tomkins is the golden boy of English rugby league, and Sam Burgess is probably the biggest star in world rugby right now. This is probably the strongest international side England have picked in recent times."

VERDICT: FINALISTS!

"Don't worry,
I'll stop you falling over!"

WALES *******

"Their key man is Craig Kopczak, who won the League Leaders' Shield with Huddersfield Giants. He's a big, uncompromising prop forward who has had a fantastic season - I picked him in my Dream Team. Wales will need him to help them set a platform. Success for Wales will be a quarterfinal, because at that stage they'll probably meet England or Australia..."

VERDICT: QUARTER-FINALS!

His Heimlich manoeuvre technique

was a bit aggressive

SCOTLAND X

"Oi, I told you - you

can tickle my balls

after the game!"

ENGLAND SUPERSTAR!

"Scotland can call upon Danny Brough, who plays at half-back for Huddersfield Giants - his decision to turn out for Scotland rather than England, who he could also have qualified for, is a huge boost. They have a couple of other players with experience at the top level, but Danny picked up the season's Man Of Steel award for the best player in English rugby league."

VERDICT: GROUP STAGES!

And the rest...

Nuts SPORT

SONNY BILL WILLIAMS
New Zealand

"He's just won the NRL with Sydney Roosters, has represented the All Blacks in rugby union, and he's currently also the New Zealand heavyweight boxing champion. He's a big unit, controversy follows him wherever he goes, and I'm excited to see what he's going to do over here!"

Australia

"He's a superstar in Australia, he plays for the South Sydney Rabbitohs alongside the Burgess brothers. He's a winner, one of the poster boys for Australian rugby. He's a phenomenal size, 6ft 3 tall and yet he runs like a winger. He's the very definition of a player who you'd describe as a beast."

Australia

"He probably feels that he needs to atone for his howler in the 2009 final that led to New Zealand winning. They were arguably the best Australian team of all time but Billy had some kind of brainfreeze, stopped a ball going into touch, and New Zealand scored on the next play..."

Nuts\6

You have to admit, Roy got it right!

The Ukraine draw was the game that ultimately got England through!

WELL, ENGLAND are there, at last, And fans can take heart from the last two games - not long ago, Roy was getting slaughtered for going to Ukraine ostensibly to get a point, but his plan came off, so you have to say his preparation was perfect.

There was no room for error, admittedly, but in the last two games, England played international football like it should be played. They weren't just passing for the sake of it, they were positive going forward, and when the opposition had the ball, they were closing them down - basically, all the things they weren't doing in other recent internationals. Everyone was in sync and it was a brilliant performance.

It's hard to find a happy medium between possession and progression football you can't just pass it around the back, If Poland had played for a draw, England might have struggled, but they came to have a go. Yes, England left the back door open on occasion, but when Lewandowski missed his one nailed-on chance, the feeling was that England were destined for Rio.

Andros is an English gem!

HOW GOOD was Andros Townsend? In a way, he's a player who doesn't have any obvious predecessors. He doesn't shoulder defensive duties like Darren Anderton, because he likes to get forward. Playing out on the right, he has Chris Waddle's ability to beat a defender with a drop of the shoulder, but unlike Chris, he's also got that raw pace.

And while there's a debate raging about foreign players in the English game, Andros also proves that if you're good enough, you will play. Spurs spent a fortune on Erik Lamela but there's no way AVB is going to drop Andros in the form he's in. The cream will always rise to the top and at the moment. Andros is that cream.

Bellamy could be Wales boss!

CRAIG BELLAMY has brought the curtain down on his international career - in many ways, it's been difficult for him, playing for (with all due respect) one of the smaller footballing nations. In those circumstances, you have to grade successs in terms of longevity, and Craig has certainly had that.

Under every national manager he's played for, Craig has always turned up and given his all for the shirt, and now you'd think that if and when the manager's job comes around, Craig would be a good shout for it. He's a Marmite footballer for many people, but he has grown in maturity and responsibility.

A nation like Wales needs someone who'll give them that spark, like Gordon Strachan seems to be doing at Scotland -Craig Bellamy could be that person. Chris Coleman is the right man right now but if ever he decides he doesn't want to be in the hot seat, Craig is the obvious choice to fill it.

"Quote me on that!"

This week's biggest match debaters!

"Joe Hart's got a fantastic defence behind him" Eh? Do they line up in the net, Theo?

"I'd rather see a good Downton Abbey than watch England play Warnock's no fan.

"I had a smell"

"I want to be Andros Townsend" You're getting there, Andros Townsend.

"I wanted to say, 'I'm playing sh*t. You could beat me playing with your nob" new snooke

"Sir Alex can barely lay out cones" Joey Barton on Britain's worst ice cream salesman.

00-ER SOUNDS

"It's not about getting turned on by Man United at home" Jamie Redknapp gets the tissues ready.

"The players were all feeling each other out"

Graeme Souness spies a mass grope.

"Volkov has a very long one"

Clive Tyldeslev on Montenegro's big man
